THE INDUSTRIAL MEET.

Canada has just finished a very important industrial conference in which representatives of capital and labor met at Ottawa to discuss many matters of general interest to the whole country.

"Collective Bargaining" was a knotty point of discussion and the conference found absolute agreement impossible.

The bosses held that "employers should not be required to negotiate, except directly, with their own employers," or with groups of the latter. The laborites contended that they had a perfect right to delegate official representation to settle their troubles on a union basis.

This matter was further dealt with by committees and there is no doubt that some satisfactory agreement will be arrived at when the representatives get together.

The 8-hour day which is a provision of the Peace Treaty, was another bone of contention. The labor folk asked that it be compulsory by legislation in all industries. "This looks unreasonable, as many occupations require a longer day, and serious curtailment of production would be inevitable if all work stopped after eight hours. In this a compromise measure can undoubtedly be reached."

Among the political reforms discussed was "proportional representation." Although this is not yet thoroughly understood by the public generally, considerable interest is being taken in it and as its workings are understood the more popular it is becoming. In discussing the matter it was drawn to the attention of the conference that while there are 79 lawyers, 47 of other professions, 72 merchants and manufacturers and 32 farmers in the house of commons, labor, but two representatives, the backbone of the country had.

One noticeable feature about this conference was that the Reds, who fomented the recent spectacular strike in Winnipeg, were kept very quiet and made no attempt at any fuss whatever. This augurs well for the success of the conference and the encouraging of such conferences in the future.

A WISE MOVE.

Up in Calgary arrangements were under way to prepare for a big reception for the returned soldiers. At a meeting of veterans, however, a resolution was passed asking those in charge of the proposed reception to dispense with any expenditure for an elaborate reception, but instead to use the money secured for that purpose to alleviate distress among widows and dependents of men who had fallen. The purchasing of two tons of coal for each of the above was suggested.

The idea is a good one. If more of our demonstrations of appreciation and loyalty were run along more practical lines than has been the custom in the past they would not only be more appreciated, but they would go a long way towards solving many of the problems which the country is facing at present.

Let us cut out all the frills and get down to practical ideas and practical deeds. It is beginning to look as though the present reception for the Prince of Wales are going too much to frills, and it is refreshing to note that the Prince himself is showing signs of tiring of it. No doubt he realizes that a man who expects one day to be king of one of the greatest empires in the world should be more interested in the development of that empire's dominions and resources than in the development of pink teas, gotten up at tremendous expense, in order that the giddy debutants might be paraded before a real live prince, in much the same manner as prize stock is paraded before the grand stand at a country fair.

By all means let us get down to the real things that count and cut out the show and cannage.

GET A JOB.

While employment agencies are experiencing some difficulty in getting men to fill vacancies, we see by the daily papers that numbers are idle and walking the streets in many of the larger cities both east and west.

With winter approaching this condition should be seriously considered.

At the present time there appears to be a big demand for labor of various kinds and in this connection Redcliff is no exception. As a result good wages are being offered for all classes of labor, but as the necessary help cannot be secured development in many lines is being curtailed and in some cases abandoned.

No doubt the idle ones are holding off for still bigger wages or else are a little particular about what class of employment they will accept. This will undoubtedly lead to but one end. The idle ones will have to start to work some time soon and the chance are that that "some time" will hit them all about the same. This will mean that all at once the market will be flooded and wages will be forced down because there will be three or four men for every job. It would be a wise plan, therefore, of those concerned would get a job while both the getting and the wages are good.

Fortunately there are no idle men in Redcliff. On the contrary several of our industries are requiring men, and according to figures submitted to the committee now dealing with the soldiers re-establishment question there are 30,000 returned soldiers in the dominion who are at present unemployed. Of these 450 are in Alberta.

On account of the delay in payment for right-of-way on the Redcliff-Hanna branch of the C. N. R. the matter was taken up by the Harvest Vale U. F. A. on behalf of those concerned. The secretary of that branch has received a letter from the manager of western lines stating that he is having the matter looked into and hopes to make a settlement at an early date.

Investigation has shown that food has been kept in cold storage in Calgary for four years. Its no wonder food meat is "high" these days.

Education Pays on The Farm

Statistics show that farmers who have had an education make larger incomes than those who have received but little schooling.

As education is more necessary now than it was thirty years ago. Farming has changed greatly in this period. Then, farmers cut their grain with a scythe, bound it by hand and threshed it with a flail. They ground their grain between stones and lifted the water out of the well in buckets. They treated their horses by cutting for "halber" and "wolf" in the tail, and planted their grain "in the moon." The horse and the ox were their only means of transportation. The farm house had no conveniences; houses were lit with candles; the kitchen equipment consisted largely of hard work.

Now, the farmers have larger farms. They cut and bind their grain with binder and thresh with engine driven separators. They frequently plow with tractors and many own automobiles. They select varieties of grain that are known to give large returns than the ordinary varieties. They treat their seed to control diseases and plant at rates per acre, which experiments have shown to give maximum yields. They select improved types of breeding animals and feed in accordance with knowledge derived from the chemistry of foods. The farm houses have been greatly improved.

To keep up with the times and to make the most money from the farm one should know how to farm in accordance with the most improved methods. You can learn these methods at the University of Alberta. The University of Alberta can learn in a few months what it would take years of experience to give you. Talk with any ex-student regarding the value of the course.

Classes in Agriculture and Domestic Science commence on October 29th. For particulars write F. S. GRISDALE, Principal, School of Agriculture, Oils, Alberta.

The Why? of Another Victory Loan

WHEN, on the morning of November 11th, 1918, the guns were hushed and glad tidings flashed across the world, there followed with the Nation's Prayer of Thanksgiving, one yearning query, which found echo in the faster beating hearts of wives, mothers, fathers, brothers, sisters and sweethearts. That query was, "How soon will our boy be home?" And, from France and Flanders, from Italy and Egypt, from Palestine and from far-off Siberia, there came an answering echo, "How soon, how soon, may we go home?"

CANADA caught the spirit of these longings, and at once resolved to satisfy them. It was an appalling task. Shipping was tragically scarce. The composition of the Army of Occupation had not then been settled. And other parts of the Empire as well as Canada were looking for the speedy return of their men.

THE problem was this. The half-million men that Canada had overseas had taken more than four years to transport to the field of battle. To bring them home in a few months was a gigantic undertaking—one to tax all Canada's ingenuity and resources. Canada solved the problem, but it meant crowding into a few short months, an expense for demobilization which it was impossible to foresee.

THEN, too, besides the sentimental aspect of the necessity for bringing the men home quickly the economic side could not be overlooked. That was, to transform efficiently and speedily the nation's army of fighters into a national army of workers.

Need Divides Itself in Two Parts

(b) To provide national working capital.

The obligations to soldiers include: That already incurred cost of bringing home troops from overseas.

The payment of all soldiers still domiciled. This includes more than 20,000 sick and wounded who are still in hospital, and who of course remain on the Army payroll till discharged.

The upkeep of hospitals, and their medical and nursing staffs, until the need for them is ended.

These three items alone will use up at least $200,000,000 of the Victory Loan 1919.

Gratuities

There is also the gratuity which has been authorized, and has been and is being paid to assist soldiers to tide over the period between discharge and their readjustment to civil life.

For this purpose alone, $61,000,000 must be provided out of the Victory Loan 1919, in addition to the $59,000,000 already paid out of the proceeds of the Victory Loan 1918.

Land Settlement

Furthermore, soldiers who desire to become farmers, under the Soldiers' Land Settlement Act, be loaned money by Canada with which to purchase land, stock and implements. The money so advanced will be paid back; meantime each loan is secured by a first mortgage. Up to August 15th, 29,495 soldiers had applied for land under the terms of this Act; and 2,281 applications had been investigated, and the qualifications of the applicant approved.

For this purpose Canada this year requires $24,000,000.

Vocational Training

For this work which, with the Vocational Training and Soldiers' Service Departments, embraces the major activities of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, an appropriation of $57,000,000 is necessary.

Those who give thought to our outstanding obligations to soldiers, and to our need for national working capital, cannot fail to be impressed with the absolute necessity for the

Start the Poultry Year Right

(Experimental Farms Note.)
The poultry year should begin November 1st. At that time the old stock should be culled out, the cockerels castrated from the pullets and the pullets weaned from the flock and put into winter quarters.
Don't keep old hens. Only the best of those hens that are over a half year old should be kept. Most of them with all the older ones should have been culled out long ago and in case this was not done do away with them now. Even if they were culled then, go over them again now and see that nothing that will not likely produce is retained.
Cull the early mortals. In selecting the hens that you intend to keep, do not take those birds that are looking clean and well feathered but rather those that are more or less shaggy in appearance. The ones that are still moulting, are the layers; those that have moulted and have a nice new coat of feathers were not, certainly, layers. They quit laying two weeks and had nothing to do but grow feathers. This explains why they have their new coat before their more industrious ones.

Early pullets should be culled in winter the early, well matured pullets. These should be carefully handled, put into their own house, fed well and given every opportunity to produce.
Pullets that are but half grown or that will not be matured for months yet should be culled out with the cockerels, crabs and market birds. Such pullets will be a bit of expense all winter and should not be kept on any account.

No matter what class of bird that are culled out for market, it will pay to wash them before killing with the high prices of feed one can not afford to market poor stock. For further particulars on culling, feeding, etc., write the poultry division, Experimental Farms, Ottawa.

We suggest that every person who wants to make his poultry pay begin at once to keep track of feed costs and expenditure. To assist in this, blank forms have been prepared by the poultry division, Experimental Farms, Ottawa, which will be sent on application to those who will promise to return each month a copy filled in. These forms will receive suggestions on how to improve the results, based on the information given in their reports.

Pensions Increased About 20 Per Cent

Lithuania is at present paying war pensions to nearly 30,000, as an annual amount of $2,000,000, and under the present law, which became effective on September 1st, the majority of them will receive bonuses and increases, which are five aggregate war claims, an enormous annual expenditure of roughly $4,000,000, says an official statement issued by the bureau of pension commissioners. Just how this enormous expenditure is to be distributed may be seen from the following table:

For each year bonus, payable for one year, to be added to the pension on the disabled private, to the totally disabled man, this requirement is to be granted on place, making his annual pension $120 instead of the former $90. The same argument or company sergeant-major, totally disabled, will have his pension raised to an annual sum raised to a sum of $720 from the former amount of $540, roughly a 33 per cent bonus. The amounts given are those to which totally disabled men are entitled, men with 10 per cent disabilities, of course, receive smaller amounts, according to the degree of their disability. These bonuses are only payable to the ranks mentioned or to corresponding rank commissioned officers and warrant officers being excluded from receiving them.

The additional pensions for married persons of $60 per annum (for a totally disabled man) is to be permanently increased to $120, and made payable to all ranks.

The following is a summary of the new schedule:

	Old	New
Widow of private.....	110	140
Widow of sergeant.....	110	140
First child.....	144	180
Orphan.....	288	360
Totally disabled private.....	90	120
Totally disabled sergeant.....	570	720
Additional pension for all married persons of all ranks.....	60	120
Partially disabled private—Increase of 33 per cent.
Partially disabled sergeant—Increase of 33 per cent.

Bonus continues from September, 1919, to September 1, 1920, and then additional pension for married persons, which is permanent.
Pensions for children will be equal for all ranks.

Will Force Down The Price of Pork

There will be a forced reduction of from five to eight cents a pound in the price of pork on October 15th next, as the result of the action taken by the board of commerce from Toronto, which is in effect that pork and hog products after that date must be sold by producers and packers at prices similar to those prevailing on or about March 10 of this year. According to comparative figures gathered, wholesale prices of pork will experience a drop from the present figure of 25 to 28 cents to 20 and 24 cents per pound. Corresponding reductions will take place in the retail prices.

This is considered to be one of the most effective blows yet struck by the board of commerce at the high cost of living. Lopping five, six or eight cents off the price of the pig and other hog products will mean a big bang for the average family in the long run.

The board's order is supplemented with the statement that this particular line of necessity will be kept under strict surveillance, and if warrant orders for further reductions will be made.

Labor Clearing House for Western Provinces

An elaborate system of interchange, which gave perfect co-operation between the western provinces and now been successfully put into operation at the local government, employment bureau, this is worked through the western clearing house at Winnipeg.

Under the new system each practical head agents to the clearing house a complete list of findings which it cannot fill, both of applications for workers and men wanting employment.

At the various provincial houses a list is received of all vacancies which cannot be filled in other western provinces, and also of men they cannot employ. Thus if they are to fill a position or have work for an applicant in another sphere, they wire at once to the clearing house to be filled, meanwhile, and after having received confirmation that their assistance can be rendered, either ask for the man to send in applicant to fill the vacant job.

In this way, through all vacancies in the west being carried through the Winnipeg clearing house, a man out of employment has all the west to find a position in, though the government agent, whilst an employer in search of a specialized worker can search the whole country through its instrumentality until he is satisfied.

The system began a working out splendidly, and the most successful results to employers and those seeking work are expected from this provincial co-operation.

Shows Austria was Responsible for War

There were made public last Tuesday from the archives of the former Austro-Hungarian government minutes of a meeting of the privy council on July 7, 1914, at which it was virtually decided to begin war on Serbia.

According to this publication, the ministry of Austro-Hungary, especially Count Leopold von Berchtold, foreign minister, was solely responsible for the outbreak of hostilities.

Government Appoints Fire Prevention Day

Owing to the large number of fires throughout Canada during the past year and the great loss of material and labor as a result, the federal government has issued a proclamation appointing Thursday, Oct. 9th, as "Fire Prevention Day." It is recommended that on that day all dwellings and their surroundings be "cautiously inspected" by the occupants, that "drills" be held for the children in all schools, and for employees in all large stores and factories, and that special instructions on the subject of fire prevention be given by the teachers and by municipal officers in the schools and that such appropriate literature as may be made available be distributed to the pupils.

During the evening the flowers and other decorations used to decorate the church for the Thanksgiving service were sold by auction and owing to the ability of Geo. Werts as an auctioneer excellent prices were realized. At this sale many excellent articles went under the hammer, most into the hands of those who were very rare variety of grapes, the appetizing appearance of which was the cause of much spirited bidding.

—but, walk right into our shoe store—and examine the values offered.

—don't judge a shoe by its appearance and shippers at a distance.

Hold our shoes in your hand and see and feel the value—turn them over and look at the sole.

A good sole is important to the life of any shoe.

For that reason many of our shoes are soled with NEOLIN SOLING. They result in long wear and extra comfort.
